She then moved to Melbourne to establish herself as an oral health therapist at Smile Solutions. Naomi is an active member of the Australian Dental & Oral Health Therapists association as well as the Australian Dental Hygiene Association. She enthusiastically attends regular meetings and courses to keep up to date with the ever-changing and developing world of dental hygiene and dental therapy, and she has a keen interest in research into oral health. For Naomi, the most fulfilling part of her job comes from providing patients with a valuable health care service while at the same time establishing a trusting relationship. She enjoys being able to work with the patient to help them reach an optimal level of oral health tailored to their own needs and values – all within a trusted and comfortable environment. She is particularly adept at working with children, who benefit greatly from her warm yet informative approach to oral hygiene and disease prevention.
