About paediatric dentists Paediatric dentists are registered specialists who focus on treating and managing the special dental needs of babies, toddlers and children. At Smile Solutions our paediatric dentists work closely with our general dentists and dental therapists. To qualify as a registered specialist paediatric dentist in Australia, a practitioner must complete a general dentistry degree followed by a three-year clinical doctorate in children's dentistry. What type of care do paediatric dentists focus on? Comprehensive dental care for children Paediatric dentists can perform a number of dental treatments for your child, including preventative care, treating dental decay, applying fissure sealants and dealing with children's dental emergencies (including dental trauma and broken or lost teeth). Creating positive dental experiences Our paediatric dentists are experienced in treating children. A significant component of paediatric dentistry involves understanding child psychology and establishing trust through child-friendly communication in a reassuring environment. At Smile Solutions we use an approach called "teddy bear therapy" to help make a visit to the dentist enjoyable and to enable your child to feel as comfortable as possible. Anxiety and behavioural concerns If your child has complex dental needs, developmental challenges, behavioural difficulties, or experiences significant anxiety at the dentist, a paediatric specialist is often the best choice. Paediatric dentists are specially trained to support children who may feel nervous or overwhelmed, creating a calm, child-friendly environment to help them feel safe and comfortable. Should my child see a paediatric specialist, dentist or oral health therapist? Paediatric Specialist Qualifications Degree in general dentistry and an additional clinical doctorate. Specialisation Only treats children and specialises in managing and treating the dental needs of babies, toddlers and young children. Recommended For Complex or extensive dental care requiring advanced techniques, such as treatment under sedation, management of children with significant anxiety, behavioural or sensory needs, or assessment of tooth and jaw development. General Dentist Qualification Holds a degree in general dentistry. Specialisation Can treat patients with check-ups and general dental procedures, and may have a special interest in paediatric dentistry. Recommended For Provides routine check-ups and general dental treatment, and can refer to a paediatric specialist when needed. Oral Health Therapist Qualification Holds a degree or advanced diploma in oral hygiene. Specialisation Provides professional dental cleaning and oral health education, and may have a special interest in paediatric dentistry. Recommended For Provides preventive care, professional cleans, and oral health education to support children's ongoing dental wellbeing, and can refer to a paediatric specialist when needed. Meet our specialist paediatric dentists At Smile Solutions your child will have access to treatment carried out by one of our board-registered specialist paediatric dentists. To qualify as a registered specialist paediatric dentist in Australia, practitioners must first have the same degree as a general dentist, with honours. They then study for a further three to four years for a Masters degree or equivalent specific training in children's dentistry, making them eligible to apply for registration with the Dental Board of Australia as a specialist paedodontist. In addition, they must be good at establishing children's trust in a friendly environment and a large part of their skill set involves understanding child psychology.
